Directed and produced by Aditya Chopra, the film was released on 26 April 2008. Plot Karan, a widower, lives with his ten-year-old daughter Priya, and his elderly mother. His five-year-old son Gauri was in Kanpur with his father, who is a single parent. Priya's father, Himmat Seth, a land surveyor who lives and works in Delhi, comes to live with them. Karan is a professional magician, who is losing his ability to perform magic tricks. His hands shake whenever he draws cards, and the pocket of his suit is so badly torn that he is unable to perform his act. Priya's mother, Uma (Rani Mukerji), wants her to study and not see magic as an occupation. In the meantime, Himmat notices Priya's acting talent and decides to give her acting classes. Although Priya dislikes all the drama that her acting lessons bring, her mother forces her to take them. Priya's friend, Raghav, takes her to an exhibition of magic. Karan is enraged that Priya has been taken to see the exhibition and expresses his disapproval in a letter to Priya. To escape the consequences of the event, Karan pretends to be on drugs in order to make his father drink a large amount of whiskey and then give him a lie detector test, which results in him being fired. Priya takes the blame and confesses that she was the one who took her to the exhibition. Priya and Karan are forced to admit that they still love each other and that they are in love. Karan eventually gets a job in India's Ministry of External Affairs, where he is reunited with Priya. Cast Saif Ali Khan as Karan Mathur, a professional magician. He has to go to an audition to join the Indian government but he is afraid of giving the test because of his shaky hands. He falls in love with Priya when he sees her acting and he admits it to her. Rani Mukerji as Uma Seth, Priya's mother. She is fond of Priya, but is not happy about her acting. She is also mad at Karan for being fired from his job. Rishi Kapoor as Himmat Seth, Priya's father, a very good photographer and a very good husband. Ameesha Patel as Priya Mathur, Kar 82157476af
